

Dr. William Stokes, Dir. NICEATM

I am writing to urge you to begin efforts to completely replace lethal dose testing with non-animal, in vitro testing methods.

This is a subject that I have been researching recently and one which I feel very strongly about. I am thoroughly convinced of the vastly superior reliability and accuracy of non-animal testing methods, because of the many proven inconsistencies in transspecies extrapolation of data. In addition to this, I am committed to doing everything in my power to put an end to all animal testing because of its inherent and extreme cruelty.

I feel that vivisection is an abhorrent waste of life and suffering and is a blight on our society.

Please put all possible efforts toward implementing non-animal methods to replace animal testing in research. Thank you.

Sincerely,
Annie Reid
